

hard to draw, for this reason that it depends pretty upon the beholder. An object that to one person would be simply pretty, would in another person, (who was more cultured or who had more imagination or idealities) awaken emotions that would justify the classing it among beautiful objects. Am I right?

Lena Overacher has had another attack of hemorrhage, and has left school. They feel badly, but Dr. Allen says it is not from the lungs, only from the throat.
Lena does not expect to teach the same school. It will be longer and she does not wish for it.
Emily goes back to the Mission.

I am all alone in the house and what would I not give to have my girls at home

I don't believe in living so
tired-out
ever I do.
Life is too short to live so
much apart.
Have you
selected your
subject yet?
Someday yet?
Come to all
from Emma

I don't think it was treating you just right, to write to Emma instead of you, but I had my ^{reasons}.
I received her letter today and feel some better, though I wish she could say her cough was well instead of only saying it is some better. I had put Hannah's letter in to the envelope to go to you but Papa said it was too much, so took it out. She says she has a little cough and as she thought it would perhaps be the last chance to name any child for her husband she calls him Living. She has not been well at all, says she has felt almost dis-couraged, that her sewing is always behind her and I think she has a pretty hard time. However she says her health is now better.

Says Liny has taken in a partner and built a new rock store, but the credit system is the ruin of every thing. You and Annie must write to Rebecca and don't put it off. Tell Latur and Greek to her. Hannah says she is very fond of the languages and still continues to study them.

We did have one very lively day but don't let it cheat you into attempting any excursions, the ground is wet and cold, and not fit for walking or climbing.
You must wait, and when it is fit, you and Annie and

Eddie can make an excursion to the hills.

Papu says will Annie please let you have $5.00
and he will repay her.

This is better than to be getting small sums. If not convenient for Annie you must let us know
and we will get your sum as soon as we can.

I suppose Annie will soon have some ahead so that she can put it in bank.
That is the best thing for her to do. I hope you had a nice time at the Art Exhibition. How came Mary S. to take you? I think that was odd. I think myself that the line between the beautiful and pretty is about thirty feet from the shore for the state.
